

Breakthrough in alternative energy technology

Hydro Environmental Resources Inc., the United States, has developed a unique and revolutionary alternative energy system that produces energy when water and a patent-pending formula are added to the converter. A reaction takes place within the converter producing hydrogen gas, electricity and clean water. The working model is a self-contained portable unit employing a cost-effective and efficient process, without any outside energy source. This new source of energy is clean, non-polluting and could be expanded to serve many forms of industries. *Contact: Mr. Steve Hull, Hydro Environmental Resources Inc., the United States.
